CareerCycles trainees and clients speak

“The major motivating factors for embracing the CareerCycles narrative method of practice at our Centre had to do with both consistency and quality assurance. As a manager, I feel more confident knowing there’s a consistent approach and a common language used when supporting students with their career exploration. In addition, the framework is flexible enough to allow professional staff to draw on their personal styles and experiences, while adding to their professional skill set.” -Tony Botelho, Manager, Career Services & Volunteer Services, Simon Fraser University

“Excellent opportunity to explore, consider and reflect. It gave me a greater understanding of my desires, natural interests and qualities, and an appreciation for others playing the game. 5 out of 5 - I consider the game to be an engaging experience.” -Anthony Hopkins, Director, Careers & Employer Partnerships Centre, Ted Rogers School of Management, Ryerson University

“CareerCycles provided a very valuable Who You Are MATTERS! workshop for our group of young professionals. This was a well-organized and fun way to spend time digging deep into and gaining clarity about what makes us happy and fulfilled. It was also neat to do it in a group setting where many bonds were built and many laughs were had!” -David Toushek, President, JCI Toronto

“Excellent and knowledgeable facilitator. The method will be very applicable to work with clients. I am excited to apply it!” -Trina Greer, Government of New Brunswick

“Great resources, structure for program, well laid out, great facilitator, pacing, presentation & knowledge. I like how it is a continuing evolving model. Thanks! I came into the training with some ambivalence as I have been bored with career counseling. I leave with a sense of purpose and excitement, feeling/believing I can offer my clients something of value. With practice, I think I will be a much better career counsellor and coach.” -Robyn Rushford, Kwantlen University

“What I liked most was that the training was very well organized, it balanced theory, questions and answers, demos and practice. Mark’s facilitation style is engaging and present. He juggles completing demands seamlessly and his knowledge and enthusiasm are incredibly inspiring.” - Nathaniel Jewitt, Carleton University

“I liked being able to learn from others, hear their stories and be a practice client. This was an extremely helpful and meaningful training experience. I feel I can take what I learned and apply it. Thanks!” -Kerri Latham, McMaster University
